

Introduction to Business Mentoring by International Business Mentors

Our aim is to update this section regularly and bring you articles of interest from a Business Mentoring perspective, and business issues in general.

David and Chris Cartney formally established International Business Mentors in 2001. The team have been involved in mentoring for the past 15 years and have developed practical methodologies for delivering this invaluable service. International Business Mentors selects and trains business mentors to extend our mentoring services.

We provide business mentors to Business Owners, CEOs, Directors and Senior Executives. Our business mentors must have run businesses and be suitably qualified in and possess the wide skills required.

Our selection processes selects business mentors who not only have the technical skills required, but also possess the competencies and human skills required to be a successful business mentor.

Business Mentoring is growing in acceptance and is acknowledged as a highly valuable service for CEOs and top executives, who have positions, which demand constant performance and involve increasing pressure. The phrase 'Its lonely at the top' is very true. These top people are expected to direct their businesses and deal with all the impacting factors, without any personal support or assistance with their own development or problem solving. A business mentor encompasses the development of the whole person and facilitates problem solving

The specific reasons for having a business mentor are numerous, and vary for each individual. We treat our business mentoring relationships with the highest degree of confidentiality.

We look forward to speaking with you about a business mentoring relationship in the near future.
